

tf-emc² meeting

Welcome to Málaga

Victoriano Giralt

Central Computing Facility
University of Málaga

Málaga

October 16th, 2006

Meals logistics

- Coffee breaks

11:00 till 11:30 and 16:00 till 16:30

will be served on the ground floor under the stairs

Meals logistics

- Coffee breaks
- Lunches

13:30 till 15:00

will be served at “Restaurante Doña Pepa” which is a 3-4 minutes walk, near Hotel Ms-Maestranza.

I will lead the pack.

Meals logistics

- Coffee breaks
- Lunches
- Dinner

20:30 Rest. Citron

We have arranged a dinner for 25 euro per person, including half a bottle of wine (or equivalent beverage).

We need to now in advance (lunch time) who will come and main course selection.

Gathering at the entrance of this building at 20:00.

More info at <http://vgg.sci.uma.es/emc2/>

Meals logistics

- Coffee breaks
- Lunches
- Dinner

20:30 Rest. Citron

We have arranged a dinner for 25 euro per person, including half a bottle of wine (or equivalent beverage).

We need to now in advance (lunch time) who will come and main course selection.

Gathering at the entrance of this building at 20:00.

More info at <http://vgg.sci.uma.es/emc2/>

Veggies, please, standup so we can notify the lunches
Restaurant

Humanities for geeks

- History

Humanities for geeks

- History

This building houses the remains of a roman garum factory, which you can admire during the coffee breaks.

Part of the port walls can be seen in the basement.

The building was built for housing the Central Post Office, so this avenue has been known for a long time as the A - B - C of Málaga.

Humanities for geeks

- History

This building houses the remains of a roman garum factory, which you can admire during the coffee breaks.

Part of the port walls can be seen in the basement.

The building was built for housing the Central Post Office, so this avenue has been known for a long time as the A - B - C of Málaga.

- Languages

Humanities for geeks

- History

This building houses the remains of a roman garum factory, which you can admire during the coffee breaks.

Part of the port walls can be seen in the basement.

The building was built for housing the Central Post Office, so this avenue has been known for a long time as the A - B - C of Málaga.

- Languages

ASEOS = TOILETS

SEÑORAS = GIRLS

CABALLEROS = BOYS

Be connected

- Electricity

Sockets on the tables

We have setup some sockets on the tables for you to charge your laptops. As we have not been able to set up many, free them once you are charged.

Be connected

- Electricity
- Wired network

Switch in the middle of the room

DHCP with mostly unfiltered routable addresses. I have some (short) wires for borrowing.

Be connected

- Electricity
- Wired network
- Open wireless

SSID: umaWIFI

For those of you without Eduroam (shame on you).

Open access with DHCP from the same pool as the wired network.

No TLS and shared with the event downstairs.

Be connected

- Electricity
- Wired network
- Open wireless
- Eduroam

SSID: eduroam

We should know what to do with that ;)
Private addresses, NATed on the router, one to one the first 63, the rest PATed over one IP.
Mostly unfiltered.

